REDWOOD IS MAIN TRANSFER STATION

FOUR TRAINS DAILY TO AND FROM NILES WILL CONNECT AT REDWOOD CITY.

Time to San Francisco Will Be Materially Reduced—Ride is a Scenic One and More Convenient.

Railroad passenger communication between this city and Niles, via the Dumbarton bridge, was established Tuesday morning when the first regular train to carry passengers made the trip from the Alameda shore.

There were a number of passengers from Niles and way stations, bound for San Francisco. The train arrived at 9 and after a visit of 23 minutes the passengers boarded the Salinas train for San Francisco. At present the time consumed in the journey from Niles to San Francisco by way of this city is one hour and forty-three minutes, which is a few minutes less than going by way of Oakland. Later it is expected that a change will be made in the time schedule by which at least twenty minutes will be saved, cutting down the time to San Francisco to one hour and twenty-three minutes.

Among the passengers Tuesday morning was a well known business man from the Alameda side who expressed himself as highly pleased with the new transportation arrangement.

"There is no doubt," he said, "but what the greater portion of the travel from in and about Niles to San Francisco will cross the Dumbarton bridge and go by way of your city andcounty, which affords scenic advantages far superior to our side of the bay. Besides we can make the trip in less time and with greater convenience. Few people on the east shore know of the beauties of San Mateo county. Your uplands and valleys are matchless and many of your homes cannot be equaled in any other part of the State. I am sure this new arrangement of the railroad company will be very beneficial to you in making your advantages better known.

The credit for the new train service is due to the Stauffer Company and Mayor George A. Merrill. When the Stauffers deeded the railroad company its right of way across the marsh, one of the provisions of the transfer was that there should be two passenger trains over the road daily each way between Niles and Redwood City. Mr. Merrill made it his business to see that this agreement was carried out.

The rates for single trips are as follows: To Newark, 40 cents; Centerville, 50 cents; Niles, 60 cents. Following is the schedule of trains to and from Niles:

WOMAN WINS RACE BUT LOSES CASH

Driving her touring car along the county road Tuesday afternoon in a thrilling race with another machine, Mrs. William H. Manaton, the bride of a business associate of Senator Marshall Black of Palo Alto, was overhauled and arrested by Ted Martenstein, motorcycle policeman, after a chase from Belmont to Redwood City, a distance of four miles.

The other contestant in the race, Howard Cooksin, son of a retired shipbuilder of Palo Alto, was overtaken and arrested by Michael Brown, motorcycle policeman. The two were taken before Justice Lampkin.

Mrs. Manaton won the race, but that was not sufficient. Fortified with her prettiest smile, she was prepared to fight her case. Justice Lampkin set the hearing for today at 10 o'clock and fixed the bail at $20.

When Cooksin's bail was fixed at a like amount he admitted that he did not have the money. Mrs. Manaton had deposited her last cent with the court, so she volunteered to go in search of bail. She left in her automobile and returned half an hour later with the $20 necessary to obtain Cookin's release.

Mrs. Manaton's sister, Miss Rose Hardin of San Francisco, was arrested by Motorcycle Policeman Martenstein, August 19 for speeding near San Mateo, but was released with a warning.

Engagement Announced

An interesting social event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tucker at Mayfield on Christmas day when the engagement of Miss Maybell Sargent to George Thorne Hoffman of Santa Barbara was announced. Miss Sargent, who is a charming and accomplished young lady, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sargent who reside on the Moore property west of Menlo Park. She is well known in this city. Her future husband is a Southern Pacific official at Santa Barbara.

WONDERFUL CHARITY DOLL COMES TO REDWOOD CITY.

Margaret Kirtland, the little daughter of the Rev. C. C. Kirtland, is the proud owner of the doll that was raffled in San Francisco last week for the benefit of the Children's Hospital. The doll netted $980 for this well known institution and was won by Mrs. W. K. Fletcher of Menlo Park, who gave it to Margaret on Christmas day.

The doll is a pretty French creation and is about twenty-four inches in height. The wonderful thing concerning her is her marvelous wardrobe. This was given by the foremost merchants of the metropolis and is valued at more than $100. A dozen large boxes are necessary to contain the apparel, which includes everything that a debutante could wish. Three tailored suits of faultless lines, three exquisite evening gowns, three sets of furs, including one of sealskin, hand-embroidered underwear and waists, morning gowns, parasols, silk umbrella, rubbers and tiolet articles of every description are in the outfit.

Perhaps among the most admired articles are the hats, which range from the satin automobile bonnet and the sealskin hat, whose only trimming is a dash of sable, to the picture hats of velvet with their wealth of plumes.

Miss Margaret and her treasure have held an almost continuous reception for the past few days, as young and old are calling at the parsonage for a peep at the wonderful doll.

HIGH-SCHOOL STUDENTS HAVE JOLLY EVENT.

The students of the high school celebrated Christmas with their tree in Germania hall Friday evening.For a program, five of the juniors presented a farce they had prepared, "Who's Who," which proved greatly interesting and amusing. One Broomfield Brambletown (George Lamb) was expecting a dashing young bachelor, Simonides Swanhopper (Lester Darwall) and a man servant, Lawrence Lavender, (Roderick Heydenfeldt) for whom he had advertised through a registry bureau. Brambletown had a daughter, Cecile, and a maid servant, Matilda Jane (Irene Dickey and Ella Martens.) Lavender arrives first and is mistaken for the bachelor and the maid he takes to be the daughter of the house. The bachelor comes and takes the daughter of the house for the maidservant. The mixup is amusing throughout and the parts were well taken. Santa Claus (Mr. Carrington) arrived promptly at the close of the play and distributed presents from the tree, which afforded considerable hilarity.

WILL THE KEY ROUTE INVADE PENINSULA?

Further evidence has come to light leading to the conclusion that the Key Route Company, which is preparing to build to San Jose, will not stop there, but will form a loop around the bay, returning to San Francisco via the peninsula.

Joseph Escolle of this city who owns property in Santa Clara county is authority for the statement that a large ranch has been purchased by the Key Route near Mountain View, and through this and other circumstances, the impression is gaining ground in that section that the company is preparing in advance for new developments.

They cannot conceive for what purpose the railroad company wanted this property unless they intended developing it by building their line through it.

Very naturally, if they contemplate coming this way they will be as secret about their plans as possible, until they are perfected, but it would not be a bad idea to go after them and assure the officials that every encouragement possible will be extended to such an enterprise—San Mateo Times.

The roof of the house on Washington street occupied by Thomas Melon and family took fire Sunday afternoon in some mysterious manner and would have been seriously damaged had not Vic Greco, who resides next door, responded promptly with a garden hose and extinguished the flames. An alarm was turned in and the fire department was quickly on hand but Greco's work was effective and the fire was out. The damage was slight.

HOLIDAY SERVICES AT LOCAL CHURCHES

How Chrismas Was Observed by Various Redwood City Congregations

The Christmas services in Mount Carmel church surpassed anything in the history of the parish. The music was of a very high order and reflected great credit on the members of the choir. The sermon was a masterpiece of composition and delivery. The ritual of the solemn high mass was beautifully conducted and the decorations of the sanctuary were very artistic and in keeping with the spirit of Christmas. A very large congregation attended the services. Father Sullivan will preach the New Year's sermon at the late mass next Sunday.

The training class of the Congregational church had charge of the Sunday school Christmas program Saturday night, and it proved an enjoyable one. There were children's songs and drills and recitations. The recitation by Lois Leary was especially good and the tableau by three girls of Mr. Behrens' class deserves mention. Santa Claus was on hand to see that the little tots were taken care of and distributed many presents from the beautiful Christmas tree.

Sunday night the choir of the Congregational church furnished some excellent music. Three special Christmas anthems were given and a wonderfully sweet Christmas lullaby was sung by Miss Wolfenden.

The popular young ladies of the telephone office had a Christmas tree Friday night on which there were numerous presents given by the ladies to eachother. The employes were also remembered by the company's local subscribers and pleasantly rewarded for their painstaking efforts to please the public.

Impressive Christmas services were held at St. Peter's church Monday morning at which Rev. W. A. Brewer of Burlingame officiated. The music was of a high order. Wednesday night the children of the Sunday school enjoyed a Christmas tree at the hospitable home of Mrs. Beeger.

The Methodist Sunday school observed Christmas with appropriate exercises Sunday morning with recitations, songs and choruses by the children and a special solo by Miss Winter. There was special music in the evening by the choir.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC COOKS SCIENTIFICALLY TRAINED

In an effort to make the meals served on the Southern Pacific trains the best that can be obtained a new department has been established by the company—a cooking school. It is, in fact, a finishing school for cooks. The work is in the hands of Ernest Heusslein, formerly chef at the Holland House of New York, Fairmont Hotel of San Francisco, Auditorium of Chicago, Malvern at Bar Harbor, the New York State House at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle and the man who fed the New York bankers' party during its 1910 trip to the American Bankers' Convention at Los Angeles.

He is making the Southern Pacific dining car a service uniform. All of the chefs are to learn how to cook the most tempting dishes. Scientific management in the kitchen is also a feature of the course.

WORRY OVER ILLNESS OF WIFE CAUSES COLLAPSE.

William Langley of Woodside was brought to the Hulings' hospital Sunday suffering from nervous breakdown. On Monday he became insane and seizing a chair threatened his physicians and attendants, and in his frenzy smashed the windows and furniture of his room. Later he escaped but was captured by the doctors and returned to the hospital. He became so violent that it was decided to remove him to the Gardner sanitarium at Belmont.

For some time prior to his breakdown Langley had been brooding over the illness of his wife and finally succumbed to his troubles. It is not thought that his ailment will be of long duration.

Dr. and Mrs. George T. Poole of San Francisco are guests of Mrs. M. E. Hanson.

THE TELEPHONE AT CHRISTMAS

THERE is no need for you to be worn out by holiday preparations if you make good use of your telephone.
The Bell telephone Companies have found that just before Christmas the number of daily connections is the highest for the year. The telephone has become a necessity of the holiday season, because without it most people would not have time to do what they have planned.
Christmas cheer extends beyond the city limits, ond the Universal Bell System helps to carry it throughout the land.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year is the sincere wish of the Times-Gazette to each of its readers.

Let us resolve that henceforth we will lay aside personal differences and unitedly labor to place Redwood City in the position to which she is by right of natural surroundings entitled.

A RED LETTER DAY.

Although hearlded by no special exercises, Tuesday, December 26, 1911, will probably stand out for years to come as marking a most important epoch in the history of Redwood City. Never before in the history of the city has been placed within the reach of our people an opportunity for commercial development equalled by the opening to passenger traffic of the Dumbarton Cutoff.

With the completion of this great feat of railway construction, this city is placed in direct communication with the great traffic arteries of the nation. Long before the time for the opening of the great Panama-Pacific Exposition at least a great portion of the throng of passenger traffic from the East will have been diverted by way of this city. The attention of every visitor, whether on business or pleasure bent, will have been called to Redwood City and each will be given an opporrunity to become acquainted with its splendid attractions and vast possibilities for commercial development.

Whether we are to reap the full measure of the advantage thus thrust into our hands, however, must rest with ourselves. Exceptionably placed as we now are, we have no right th expect that those who are seeking either places or homes or opportunities for investment will hunt us up unless we take some pains to make our values known. To properly do this will require no small amount of labor and some little expenditure of money. To provide these and reap the full benefit, we must be prepared to act with promptness and in unison. The work must not be left for the few. Each must stand ready to bear a part.

WHAT THE BALANCE SHEET SHOWS.

Another mile stone in the march of time has been passed. We have rounded out another epoch in our history. The time has come for the striking of another trial balance—of a review of the work of the old year—that we may the better plan for the work of the year to come.

So far as our local interests are concerned—and it is with these that we are primarily interested—the people of Redwood City can witness the passing of the old year with but little to regret. Upon the whole the hand of fate has dealt kindly with us.

As a business community we have been fairly prosperous. Generally speaking our people have been provided with remunerative employment. Our merchants— while perhaps not doing quite as much business as some might have desired—have, nevertheless, prospered fairly well. In no instance have they been compelled to recede from past standards, while in many cases marked increase of development has been noticeable. While there has been no marked increases of manufacturing enterprises, those already in our midst have been constantly in operation and are today providing employment for their full quota of help.

As a home center the city has shown a marked advancement during the past year. Upon every side new residences have been erected. Some of the pretentious character which indicate the comforts and refinements of wealth—others of the less pretentions, but substantial character which represent the homes of the mechanic—all of a class which indicate a prosperous and well ordered community.

As a civic community we have been equally blessed. Peace and good order has prevailed and a high moral standard has been maintained. Material advance has been made along the lines of public improvement, as witness a splendid new municipal building nearing completion, the installation of a thoroughly modern and efficient fire alarm system, and the completion of the first important step in the work of protection from the dangers of winter floods which have long been a menace to the city.

Certainly the showing of the balance sheet is a satisfactory one. With the results of the past we have no cause for regret, with the prospects for the future we can find much to be gratified. In achieving the splendid results of the past year we have been taught some valuable lessons. We have seen the necessity of united action, the importance of concerted efforts for the upbuilding of a substantial community. We have come to realize that if each is to succeed all must help. With this important lesson learned, the future holds out many bright promises in the way of material advancement.

There is every reason to believe that the coming year will witness a far greater business prosperity than has been shown in the past. It is now practically assured that before the close of the year 1912 the city will be provided with a complete and modern system of street railway service, giving intimate connection with one of the most prosperous sections of the county and this controlled by local capital and operated for the development of the city. Within the same time we shall witness the actual development of one of the most eligible factory sites on the peninsula and the location in our midst of several important manufacturing enterprises, insuring not only a material increase of a desirable element of population but constant employment of the youth of the community.

Clearly a review of the balance sheet leaves no room for regrets for the past. Certainly there is every reason why the people of Redwood City should wish eachother a "Happy New Year."

Domestic Science at High School.

There has come a demand for the public schools to instruct the girls in home problems and home duties, and under the head of home economics there has grown a great movement for the betterment of American homes and American people. This movement is more particularly characterized as domestic science. This fall a course in domestic science was added to the work of the Sequoia Union High School, being put upon the same basis as any science course. It is the intention to give the girls some practical knowledge as well as some organized facts which will help them better to solve the problem of daily living. One half of the year is to be given to the study of clothing and the other half to the study of foods. Miss Truman, in charge of this department, says:

"Under the head of food, we endeavor to study the selection and preparation of foods, their composition and their uses in the body, the cost of materials and how the greatest values may be obtained, for the least expenditure of energy and money.

"We study some of the principles of sanitation which are closely involved in the care and preparation of food materials.

"Under the head of clothing we consider the source and manufacture of materials; the hygiene of clothing; the appropriateness to the individual as to utility, comfort, figure and purse. Much time is given to practice in making different stitches with accuracy, neatness, and rapidity; also the drafting and cutting of simple garments, and the use of the sewing machine. Some time is given to mending and fancy work.

"Fifteen girls of the high school have registered for the course. Those who are always good students find the work interesting.

"Those who registered because the work is new and who think domestic science synonomous with 'eating' without work, find it uninteresting and irksome.

"There are few of the latter, for we have few of them in our high school."

The board of trustees has supplied a good equipment for kitchen, dining and sewing room at,an approximate cost of $600. This figure does not include the running expenses or the teacher's salary.

Twenty-two grammar school girls from the seventh and eighth grades are also taking the domestic science course at the high school.

REMINISENCES OF OUR PIONEER DAYS

Gleanings From the Records Left By Men Who Laid the Foundation of Our County.

In the earlier days of her history Redwood City boasted that the peculiar bent of her mechanical geniouses, as will be noticed by the following item culled from the columns of the Times and Gazette of the issue of May 19th, 1888: "The 'Lillian' is the latest addition to the handsome sailing crafts of Redwood Creek. She was built by James E. Van Court and is made mostly of paper, the frame work being light strips of wood. Seventy copies of the San Francisco Chronicle, weighing fourteen pounds, were used in her construction. The paper is put on in seven layers, and between each layer is a coating of asphalt varnish. On the inside and outside is a covering of butter cloth. The boat weighs about 175 pounds, her dimensions being eighteen feet long, three feet beam and twelve inches amidship. She is owned by Ed. Fisher and Geo. Hooten."

Another proposition, and seemingly a reasonable one, looking to the establishment of a modern street lighting system for Redwood City was made to the town trustees at their meeting on July 16th, 1888. This time the proposal came from the Waterhouse Electrical Company of San Francisco, and offered to put the town in possession of a complete srteet lighting system sufficient for thattime for a total cost of only $2,500. For this sum the company proposed to furnish a 12-light dinomo, with an equal number of 2000-candle-power lamps on poles of 40 feet in height. The plant to be run by a steam engine of power sufficient to drive a dinamo of double the capacity proposed at the time, the engine to be run by steam generated by the boilers at the water works. While it was claimed that the plant could be run by the town at a cost which would not exceed $25 a month, evidently the trustees were not prepared to take a step into such extreme modern methods, for the proposition was laid on the table at the following meeting of the town council by a unanimous vote of the trustees.

It was on the morning of the 20th of July, 1888, that John Poole, for many years one of the leading citizens of Redwood City, met with the accident that compelled him to go through the remainder of his life a cripple. Probably no better account of the unfortunate occurrence can be bgiven than that which appears in the news reports of the local press of that date, which was as follows:

"Yesterday morning John Poole left his home to attend to his business and was in the best of health and in his usual good spirits. An hour later he was carried back to his family suffering from an accident which, if his life is spared will render him a cripple for hte remainder of his days. The accident occurred about 6:30 a. m.

One of the teams loaded with Spring Valley pipe was turning into Maple street from Phelps when the pipe rolled off. At this time Mr. Poole was standing in front of Offermann's store. He saw what had happened and appreciating the bad predicament of the driver, proposed that himse'f and companions go at once and help reload the wagon. One of the pipes was replaced without accident. While the second pipe was being rolled upon the skids the rope which was attached to it parted under the heavy strain and the pipe rolled back to the ground. Mr. Poole was standing behind it and when it commneced to fallran backwards to get out of the way. But he was too late. By the time he reacher hte sidewalk he was overtaken by the heavy pipe, which weighed a ton, and both his legs wedged between it and the walk. The right leg was caught by a protruding plank and the bones below the knee crushed to splinters. The left was not injured.

Mr. Poole was placed on a cot and taken to his home. Dr. Ross was summoned, and Dr. Kirkpatrick, who was in town, was also called in, and after a consultation it was decided to amputate the leg at the knee. joint. The patient passed through the operation safely.

"It is said that the accident was the outcome of a prank of some mischievous boys, who cut the ropes which bound the pipes to the wagon while it was standing on the street over night.

"John Poole has been engaged in the express business in this town for the past 18 years. He has a host of friends who deeply sympathize with him in his affliction."

MOORE DIVORCE CASE THROWN OUT OF COURT

Judge Buck Declines to Sever Ties for Wealthy Couple

Judge Buck has rendered a decision in the divorce case of Lillian Moore against J.J. Moore denying plaintiff a decree of divorce and also denying J. J. Moore a decree on his cross complaint. Both parties to the action failed to prove their case and the court was therefore compelled to deny the applications. Those who heard the evidence are unanimous in their opinion that Judge Buck rnedered a fair and just decision.

Te opinion rendered by Judge Buck reads as follows:

"This is an action for divorce upon two grounds—extreme cruelty and infidelity. The defendant entered a denial to the charges made in the complaint and at the same time filed a cross complaint asking for a a divorce from plaintiff upon the ground of extreme cruelty inflicted upon defendant by plaintiff.

"This case is not much concern for the court for the reason that no interests of children are involved. It seems from the evidence offered in court and from the appearance of the parties while they were under the observation of the court, that the differences between the plaintiff and the defendant out of which has grown this divorce proceeding result largely from the active temperaments of the parties and their failure to look seriously upon the duties of home life.

"Their whole conduct seems to be what we might naturally expect from the unbridled temperament of overgrown children rather than from persons of mature years.

"While there are some acts verging upon cruelty presented by the plaintiff, it certainly seems to me that all such acts were invited—at least, if they were not invited there was certainly lack of that tact usually attributed to woman in trying to avoid these little unpleasant affairs.

"I do not propose to review the testimony offered in this matter, but from it and from the appearance of the parties in court I shall hold that plaintiff has not presented sufficient evidence to warrant me granting her a divorce upon the grounds of extreme cruelty.

"I will saw that there has been no evidence presented to warrant this court to find any acts of infidelity on the part of the plaintiff with Dr. MacMonagle or with Mr. Fenwick. As to the charge of infidelity made against the defendant by the plaintiff, no evidence was offered to support such a charge, andhence I shall find against the plaintiff upon both grounds named in her complaint.

"The defendant's cross-complaint charges extreme cruelty by the plaintiff toward the defendant. I have listened patiently to the evidence offered in support of this charge by the defendant, and I have also listened to the able presentation of this whole unfortunate matter by astute counsel upon both sides, but I cannot agree with either council, and I shall hold that the defendant has failed to establish the facts alleged in his cross-complaint and hence defendant's prayer for divorce will be denied.

"If the parties to this action really desire a divorce they will have to wait till the statutory time has run.

"It would seem that there is not much hope for the parties to this action becoming reconciled, and, under the power vested in this court by section 136 of the civil code of the State, provision will be made for the payment of a certain sum of money monthly by the defendant to the plaintiff. The attorneys will present findings."
